Celerity is a business acceleration consultancy.

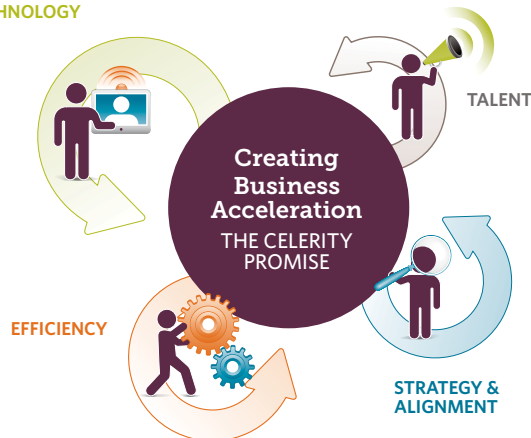

We specialize in helping companies accelerate results by working in the key stuck points that slow down momentum and market credibility. Those areas include technology adoption and integration, business process efficiency, strategy and alignment, and talent.

Our mission is to inject entrepreneurial drive, efficiency, and innovation into our client organizations, helping them solve critical problems expediently and gain lasting advantages.

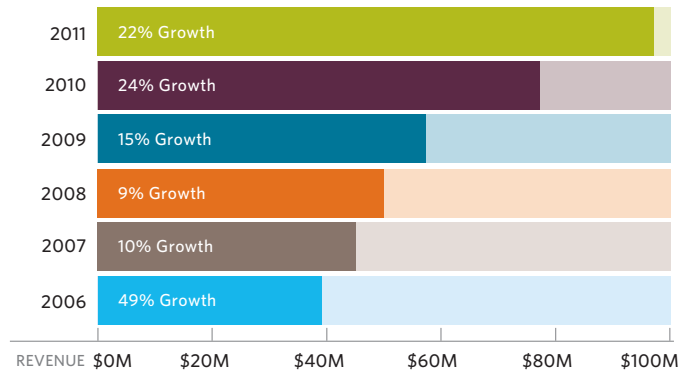

Our world-class consulting teams accelerate results by solving problems where the most critical bottlenecks, broken processes, and misalignments handicap business success — enabling companies to seize market opportunities and generate momentum.

Our Heritage...Our People

Celerity was founded by a group of successful entrepreneurs with a vision to build a consultancy that helps leaders achieve break-through success in competitive markets. Led by Michael Berkman, CEO, Celerity seeks to transform corporate America and government by becoming the recognized thought leader on business acceleration.

Our people possess a rare combination of creative courage, accountability, competitive spirit, resiliency, and learning agility. By consistently applying these skills, our teams have a proven track record of accelerating growth, innovation, and excellence for some of America's most respected companies.
